PLAN DIVIDEND REGISTRATION

Registration of Alberta residents entitled to receive the basic dividend of $25 a month, will be carried out by the provincial government with the co-operation of Social Credit constituency executives throughout the province, Acting Premier Hon. Ernest C. Manning stated on Monday.

The registration will be carried out under the direction of Hon. Mr. Manning's department, namely, provincial secretary.

The acting Premier stated that the government was communicating with all provincial constituency executives and asking them to co-operate. These executives will be asked to complete organization and if possible, form a group at every poll, to be used as the channel by which information can be gathered and registration carried out. The minister pointed out that in the election campaign, the Social Credit forces had an executive in each constituency, with the constituency divided into as many as 10 or 12 zones and it was felt that the best registration results could be obtained by this same method of contact.

PAINT PRICES SHARPLY REDUCED

A sharp reduction in the price of first quality house paint to $3.95 per gallon is announced by the manufacturers of some of Canada's best-known brands of paint, the reduction to take effect immediately.

In making the announcement, the companies concerned state that the reduction is not justified by any change in market conditions or manufacturing costs. To point out, however, that during the past few years many householders have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint with results that reacted unfavorably on the whole industry. Drastic action was felt to be necessary to check a situation that seriously threatened property values all over the country.

The new low price is designed to make it easier for property owners to use first quality paint only, with resulting benefit to the property and to the community in general. The companies announcing the reduction are Canada Paint, International Varnish, Martin-Senour and Sherwin-Williams.

COAL PROBE TO GO AHEAD

Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—The Alberta coal commission, under Sir Montague Barlow, to inquire into the coal resources of the foothills province will proceed. This was announced by Premier Aberhart of Alberta before he left here on his way to Ottawa over the week-end.

Previously it had been announced the inquiry would be called off. Mr. Aberhart was quite definite in his announcement the inquiry would go ahead. The information it would gather, he said, was of great importance to the province.

BIRTHS

To Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Inkin, at Unity hospital, Saskatchewan, on 5th September, a son. This is the first great-grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Inkin, London, Eng., who celebrated their Golden wedding on Dec. 26, 1934.

Irma, too, can boast of a strange event. This time a race between an automobile and that rare old bird, the stork. Mr. and Mrs. Ole Enger Jr. were speeding to the home of his parents to put through a phone call for Dr. Greenburg and to receive assistance, but the stork won, with the result that a lovely eight-pound daughter was born in the car about a hundred yards from the parental home. Mother and child received attention immediately and both are real well. Congratulations!

The Women's Institute

The W. I. constituency convention was held in the Masonic hall at Wainwright on Thursday afternoon, 29th August. Rose Willow, Wainwright branches and several members all visitors from Irma were in attendance. Mrs. G. Batchelor acted as the Irma delegate. Mrs. Ford, the constituency convener, presided over the convention. Mrs. Brown of Paradise Valley, district director of district 2, gave a very inspiring address on the activities of this great organization. On the retirement of Mrs. Ford, constituency convener, Mrs. R. C. McFarland of Irma was appointed for that office. At the close of the meeting the Wainwright members served a very fine supper.

UNITED CHURCH NOTES

A meeting of the Sunday school executive was held on the evening of Friday, September 6th, at the residence of Mrs. Arnold. Mr. T. S. Reeds superintendent, conducted the devotional exercises and presided over the business session. The work of the school was very carefully considered, the items being presented by Miss Flewelling, secretary, and the following business was transacted:

It was decided to observe Rally day. Mrs. S. Johnson was appointed, by a unanimous vote, to continue as the leader of the C.G.T.

Promotions were left in the hands of the teachers of the classes, in consultation with the superintendent.

Temperance instruction to be given by the teachers in the classes, rather than at open sessions of the school.

The following committee was appointed to make arrangements for the organization of boys' groups under the C.S.E.T.: I. S. Reeds, S. Johnson, E. F. Kemp.

A pleasant time followed the business, an enjoyable lunch being served by the bountiful hostess.

The regular fall meeting of the United Church, Irma, opening session 2 p.m. on Wednesday, September 18th. Local residents are cordially welcome at any of the sessions, but are especially invited and urged to attend the public meeting at 8 p.m. Addresses will be given by Rev. Dr. Scott of Viking and Rev. D. K. Allan of Tofted, Rev. R. W. Griffith, chairman of the Presbytery, presiding. Visiting delegates will be entertained overnight, and next morning the business sessions will be continued. Help the Irma church to extend a warm hospitality to our guests by your presence. The evening meeting has been arranged especially so that members of the Presbytery may bring a message to friends of the local church.

The increased congregation at the evening service in Irma last Sunday evening was most encouraging. The pastor spoke a few words in appreciation of the girls' choir, who sang a special selection very sweetly; and also extended a very hearty welcome to Mrs. Caprani-Winkel, the new music teacher, who has very kindly undertaken the training of the choir.

Services next Sunday, September 15th, are as follows: Albert, 11 a.m.; Alma Mater, 3 p.m.; Irma 8 p.m.

HUEY LONG IS SHOT

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 9.—Senator Huey P. Long was shot and wounded seriously in the State building last night by Dr. C. A. Weiss Jr., eye specialist of Baton Rouge and member of an anti-Long political family, who was quickly slain by the Louisiana "Dictator's" bodyguards. An hour and a half after the shooting, Long was given a blood transfusion at Our Lady of the Lake infirmary, where the attendants said the Senator's wound consisted of a bullet hole through the stomach.

Long remained conscious as physicians worked over him.

Trains Prove to Be Safest Form of Travel

Winnipeg, Sept. 9.—From time to time as announcements are made of innovations in the transportation world, the thought, probably, comes to mind as to whether the days of the railway are numbered. Inventions and advances made during the past ten years would indicate that this is far from being the case. A great amount of research work is being carried on and it is only now their immense possibilities are becoming to be realized. So far there has been no agency developed that can handle a number of people with greater dispatch or with a greater degree of safety than the railway. In Great Britain last year, out of every 96,000,000 passengers handled only one was killed and one in every 3,000,000 injured. The same applies to freight where the railway is the common carrier of all classes of goods, irrespective of bulk, weight or amount.

An Announcement To Farmers and Threshermen

The United Farmers of Alberta have severed relationship with the Great West Distributors Ltd. in the oil business. However, since the latter company's fuel and oil have proven almost supreme on the market, they have now made it possible for their agents to pay the dividends (which in the past have been enjoyed only by the U.F.A.) not only to the U.F.A. locals, but to every fuel consumer of their products. I take pleasure in giving you this information and solicit a share of your patronage of the fall business.

If you have never used the Red Head products give them a trial. You will be agreeably surprised and there is more mileage in Red Head gasoline.

LEADING PAINT MANUFACTURERS ANNOUNCE

PRICE REDUCTION

First Quality House Paint

Now

$3.95

per gallon

(Whites Slightly Higher)

The Quality Remains Exactly The Same. Only The Price Is Changed.

Dating from to-day, the price of first quality house paints manufactured and sold by the undersigned companies is reduced to $3.95 per gallon.

There has been no change in market conditions or manufacturing costs to justify this step. We feel, however, there is urgent need for action that will make it possible for householders to obtain the highest quality paints at the lowest price consistent with strict maintenance of quality.

Thousands of people all over the country have been forced to put off much needed painting. Thousands more have been misled by "bargain" prices into using inferior paint of little or no value. We want to make it easier for you to enjoy the advantages of painting with first quality paint only, and are confident that the generous reduction in price now announced is the best way to accomplish this.

Motorists---Take It Easy

The highways of North America are dotted with thousands of motor cars as people travel from city to town and town to city, and as they proceed on business journeys. Each and every one of these cars is a high-powered vehicle, capable of doing almost incalculable damage unless handled with judgment and discretion. Whether you and your friends enjoy the motor trip you may be making depends not on the speed you travel, but whether you arrive safely at your destination.

In the United States last year there were almost one million motor accidents, with 36,000 deaths. The accident and death rate in Canada is almost as high, Ontario last year recording 512 deaths and 8,990 accidents which were not fatal, but many of which meant people scared and maimed and intense suffering for hundreds.

In the driving of a car, a man reveals himself. It is the thoughtless, selfish, reckless driver that is largely responsible for the toll on the highways. What is gained if a man arrives at his destination a few seconds ahead of schedule? Why do so many men, when seated behind the wheel of a car, act like boars and leave behind every vestige of courtesy and consideration for others?

The motor is a wonderful invention, but in the hands of a man without judgment or balance, is a terrible instrument of destruction, leaving death and maimed lives in its wake.

In the August issue of that popular little magazine "Reader's Digest" there appeared an article entitled "—And Sudden Death!" which has attracted continent-wide notice and hundreds of thousands of reprints of which are being distributed throughout Canada and the United States. The only regret is that a copy cannot be placed in the hands of every person who drives an automobile. It is a gruesome recital of what automobile accidents really are, a realistic portrayal of scenes witnessed every day on the highways of this supposedly civilized continent.

The automobile, says the writer of this article, is treacherous, just as a cat is. It is especially difficult to realize that it can become the deadliest missile. As enthusiasts tell you, it makes 65 an hour feel like nothing at all. But 65 an hour is 100 feet a second, a speed which puts a viciously unjustified responsibility on brakes and human reflexes, and can instantly turn this docile luxury into a mad bull elephant.

Collision, turnover or sideswipe, each type of accident produces either a shattering dead stop or a crashing change of direction — and, since the occupant — meaning you — continues in the old direction at the original speed, severe and sudden death is the result. The car is a machine of battering, tearing projectile, aimed squarely at you — inescapable. There is no bracing yourself against these imperative laws of momentum.

It's like going over Niagara Falls in a steel barrel full of railroad spikes. The best thing that can happen to you — and one of the rarer things — is to be thrown out as the doors spring open, so you have only the ground to reckon with. True, you strike with as much force as if you had been thrown from the Twentieth Century at top speed. But at least you are spared the lethal array of gleaming metal knobs and edges and glass inside the car.

Anything can happen in that split second of a crash, even those lucky escapes you hear about. People have dived through windshields and come out with only superficial scratches. They have run cars together head on, reducing both to twisted junk, and been found unhurt and arguing bitterly two minutes afterward. But death was there just the same — he was only exercising his privilege of being erratic.

And every time you pass on a blind curve, every time you hit it up on a slippery road, every time you step on it harder than your reflexes will safely take, every time you drive with your reactions slowed down by a drink or two, every time you follow the man ahead too closely, you're gambling a few seconds against agony and sudden death.

There is an old legal phrase that "time is of the essence of the contract." This is not true on the highway; the reverse is true. Your duty as a driver is to bring safety home not only yourself, but your family and friends who may be travelling with you. Equally, it is your duty to so drive your car as to in no way endanger others but to allow them to likewise reach their homes in safety.

Rebuilt By New Method

Worn Machine Parts Made As Good As New

Fired at the speed of a rifle bullet, particles of hot metal rebuild worn machine parts by a new method. Screw heads are cut into the surfaces to be repaired and then the metal is sprayed on the grooves and ridges in such a way as to "freeze" and become part of the metal under treatment. The spraying is done with an electrically operated gun that "shoots" the metal particles through a tiny hole in the nozzle at 2,700 feet per second. The particles are smoothed and polished with abrasives, giving long wear. Piston rods, cylinder walls, shafts, bearings and turbines are among the parts treated successfully.—Popular Mechanics.

Jubilee Week Was Busy

King's Secretaries Replied To Over Ten Thousand Messages

Statistics just available give some indication of the work performed by His Majesty's secretaries during Jubilee week. During the period May 3 to 9 the King received 10,264 telegrams from every conceivable part of the world. Every sender of a telegram within the British Isles, no matter what his rank or station in life, had a reply sent him by His Majesty or by one of the private secretaries. Overseas messages were similarly answered, the more important by cable, but many by a personal letter from the King's secretaries or His Majesty's representative in the Dominions or Colonies.

Worked Under Difficulties

French Engineers Had Hard Job Building Hotels In Algeria

As the French penetrate further and further southward into the Sahara, pacifying the roving Arab tribes as they go, hotels are being erected for the accommodation of Government officials, visiting Army officers, business men and the occasional venturesome tourist. The hotels had to be taken south, through the desert, in parcels. Each parcel weighed about 200 lbs., and was one camel-load. Caravan after caravan, travelling forty-five days through sands, brought to Timimoun, in the far south of Algeria, the many tons of windows, doors, glass, china, linen, cutlery, furniture, electrical installation and other equipment needed for the local hotel. Neither foremen nor European laborers would agree to go there, so the place was built by French army engineers, who themselves had to trace in the sand the first outline of the building because the superstitious wild Arabs of the region feared The Evil Eye, and would not have anything to do with blue-prints. They did consent to make the mud bricks, however, which form the walls, and to drag up to the site the date-palm trunks forming the roof beams and "girder-work." The rest had to come in parcels. Even the ships of the desert bringing the parcels were temperamental. They would not travel on even such good roads as were to be found along their line of route, but had to be steered over soft sandy courses. Camels suffer from bad spells of foot soreness unless allowed soft tracks.

Drama Festival Finals

Dates Are Set For 1936 Contests In Western Canada

Regulations covering the 1936 Dominion drama festival provide for contests in 11 regions into which Canada is divided for competition, with a final week in Ottawa beginning Monday, April 20.

Issued by J. A. Aylen, honorary secretary-general of the festival, the regulations set the following dates for English play regional festivals in western Canada: British Columbia (Vancouver), Jan. 27 to Feb. 1; Alberta (Calgary), Feb. 6, 7, 8; Saskatchewan (Saskatoon), Feb. 13, 14, 15; Manitoba (Winnipeg), Feb. 20, 21, 22.

Regional festivals for French plays will be held in Quebec City, Montreal and Ottawa on dates to be arranged and announced later.

No play performed in the finals at Ottawa in 1934 or 1935 will be eligible for presentation in 1936, the regulations set forth. As in the past, the festival will be restricted to one-act plays or single self-contained scenes from longer plays which occupy not less than 20 and not more than 45 minutes.

Direction of the festival again will be in the hands of Col. H. C. Osborne, honorary director, and an executive committee. In each region a regional committee will have charge.

Lighthouse Heroine Dead

Madame Matelot Won Overnight Fame On Belle Isle

Mme. Matelot, heroine of marine tradition, died recently at Lorient, France.

It was in 1910 Mme. Matelot (the translation of whose name is "Sailor") leaped in one agonizing night to world fame, won the admiration of mariners the world over, and subsequently the Carnegie Medal for heroism and the Legion of Honor.

Her husband was the lighthouse keeper at Kerdons Light on Belle Isle. As he was about to set the light in motion one twilight it would not throw its warning rays across treacherous shoals.

The woman called her children and made them turn the heavy light all night while she tried to aid her husband start the machinery.

When the children no longer could continue the endless grind, the mother took up the task and kept the light turning until dawn, when she collapsed as help arrived.

Times Have Changed

Back in the good old days a boy could go to a picnic and have a dandy good time on two bits. He would ride the merry-go-round a couple of times, drink a glass of red lemonade and spend the other dime for a ticket to a minstrel show. But how things have changed. A boy of the same age in these fast-stopping times will spend at least $2 or $3, and blamed if he believe he has as good a time as the boy who took a quarter with him for his day's expenditures at a picnic.

Predicts Horseless London

Ministry Of Transport Working Toward Mechanizing System

Within five years, it is predicted, the London dray horse will be no more in London as to be regarded as a curiosity, the streets of 1940 being practically entirely free of horses. The Ministry of Transport is hastening this condition by plans to substitute horse-drawn traffic by a completely mechanized system, and some of these plans will be carried into effect shortly.

The busiest streets in London will be closed to horse-drawn traffic in the near future by regulations soon to be issued by the department. Already there is a device operating in Oxford street between certain hours. Later an edict will be issued that horse-drawn vehicles will not be allowed in London at all after a period of from three to five years.

Under existing traffic legislation, the Minister of Transport, L. Horne-Bellish, has power to put an end to traffic by horse in London's streets. His department, however, has no intention of driving horses from the streets until their owners have had fair warning.

Bargain Fares Offered By C.P.R. and C.N.R. For Early Autumn Trip

Popularity of early autumn bargain fares to eastern Canada last year has induced the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways to offer similar travel privileges in September of this year, according to an announcement by Joseph B. Parker, western secretary, Canadian Passenger Association.

This fall weather rate, attractive after the heat of summer, begins with a ticket sale from September 21 to October 4 and bears a final return limit of 45 days in addition to the date of sale. Stop-over privileges go with the tickets within a limit at the stations of Port Arthur, Armstrong and east.

Tickets will be honored in coaches, tourist or standard sleepers on payment of fare according to the accommodation desired. They will be on sale from all stations from Port Arthur, Armstrong and west, including Pacific Coast points to all stations including Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Cochrane and east.

This Robin Was Clever

Called Man To Help Rescue Mate From Snake

The story of a robin which called a man to rescue its mate from the jaws of a snake was told Friday.

George Swan, attracted by a bird screaming and flapping against the back door of his home, went to investigate. The robin flew away as he approached, appearing to call him on, and Swan followed.

It led him to the end of the garden circling close to the fence, calling loudly. There in the grass Swan saw a snake with another robin in its mouth.

He killed the three-foot reptile with a stick and the two birds flew away together.

SYNOPSIS

Nancy Nelson is a sub-deb, a gay, irresponsible girl of nineteen, with no care beyond the choice of her costume for her coming-out party. Suddenly, in the market crash, her indulgent father loses all he had, and his family is faced with the necessity of a simpler method of living. At this juncture a letter is received from an eccentric relative in Colorado, who offers the girl a home on what seems to be impossible conditions.

After much consideration, Cousin Columbine's offer is accepted, and Nancy and Jack arrive at Pine Ridge. Nancy set out one afternoon to climb to the top of a hill so as to obtain a view of the surrounding landscape and misses the path. Aurora Tubbs had told her to follow a truck coming along the road, driven by Matthew Adams, and she asks him which way to go. They ascend the hill, look around, and then go on to Cousin Columbine's. There Mark Adam tells Nancy that his brother Luke has broken out the shelves for Jack Nelson has been hired to help out while Luke's leg gets better. With Jack away, Nancy finds that she is lonesome, and having no books to read, the idea of starting a public library at Pine Ridge seems a good one, and Nancy writes home to get her parents to send all the books they could spare and all they could induce others to let them have.

Nancy and Matthew Adam go Christmas shopping in a neighboring town. On their return to Pine Ridge, Nancy is amazed to see the Columbine residence all up and ask Matthew if he knows why. He said: Let's go in and see. Then Nancy learns that she is having her debut, but in a different setting than had been planned for her in Boston.

Nancy's parents and friends gave their liberal support, to the request for books, and a sizeable box arrived in due course. Father Adam painted a sign for the library, and the Adam boys worked on the shelves for the books and decorations to make the room look presentable.

Now Go On With The Story

To the natives of Pine Ridge the Aladdin Library seemed wonderful enough as it was. "And how every one of those blessed Adams had worked!" thought Nancy with gratitude. Father Adam's neat lettering adorned more than three hundred books which Juanita and Mary Taylor had helped her cover with brown paper. They had had fun over it, too. Some of the work was done on winter evenings when Jack and the Adam boys had joined them, as well as a good-looking forest ranger who appeared at church one Sunday, and had contrived to appear at the Nelson mansion at frequent intervals ever since!

Mother Adam made and donated crocheted hangings for the windows. Matthew and Mark had built the shelves; low shelves which girdled the whole room, made from lumber they "just found lying around the place," and stained dark brown. Even John, busy at school, appeared one week-end with a dog book; and Luke, the fourth chair found in the schoolhouse. Transformed, a cheerful Chinese red, these proved such a success that he insisted on painting Nancy's "desk" as well, and a table for magazines found in Aurora's cellar; while his mother sacrificed a wicker porch chair, cushioned to match the hangings at the window.

"This place would be almost cozy if it weren't for the bare walls," said Mary Taylor. "But don't you mention the lack of pictures before Juanita. No knowing what impossible contribution she might bring in!"

Nancy smiled, and answered: "I'll forage in Cousin Columbine's attic. I saw an old engraving of Lincoln up there the other day."

There was also one of George Washington; and Mary appeared that afternoon with what she said her mother called "a yard of authors"; photographs of the New England poets framed in oak.

Eve Adams laughed when she saw this offering. "It brings things back, Nancy. Stored in our attic is a yard of roses; and we had a yard of kittens in the nursery. That idea used to be all the rage."

"Gee, Mum! I remember those kittens!" This was Mark pausing as he adjusted a crooked window shade. "They had blue ribbons round their necks and extraordinarily long whiskers! But these are good photographs, Nancy. They'll add a literary touch to our decorations."

No wonder Nancy felt a thrill of pride at the result of her planning! Out of what a few short weeks before had been a bare and useless room, had blossomed this cheery little place; and already the people of the village were asking if it couldn't be opened every night. Ten days ago they had had their "house-warming," with hot chocolate and doughnuts for refreshments—a party which even Victor Tubbs had roused himself sufficiently to attend!

This had been on a Saturday, and the minister who conducted services in the Pine Ridge church twice every month, arrived in time to make a speech. Nancy hadn't counted on that; but it was a good speech and she liked the minister despite the fact that he referred to her as "our dear young benefactor." Indeed, at this point in his address, Jack had been stricken with an attack of choking, and at least four Adams had winked in her direction; while the sophisticated Nancy Nelson had felt her ears grow scarlet with confusion.

Nancy smiled at the memory. She was feeling particularly happy this afternoon for good news had arrived from home. Dad was making a new start with a splendid firm, and had been offered an unexpectedly good price for the city house.

"In some ways it's a wrench to give it up," wrote her mother, "but we can't lose this chance; and in any case we shall stay in Edgemere for several years. Phil loves his school; and I am loving the life of a country town again. It's such a joy to see your father his cheerful self once more. These anxious months have brought him some gray hairs; but he's happy and interested now, and wondering if you're not almost ready to come home."

Home! The girl drew a long, long breath. It would be wonderful to see Dad and Mother and Phil and the aunts, and all the old crowd, of course; but Cousin Columbine was going to miss her frightfully. And she couldn't leave until the library was running smoothly and she found somebody to fill her place.

Nancy leaned forward, lifting a child's bank which was placed on her desk for voluntary contributions, and smiled as a reassuring rattle met her ears. The first donation had come from a small girl who said, as she dropped in a shining penny: "It's to help your library, Miss Aladdin. Nothing has pleased Nancy half so much as this innocent mistake in her identity. Matthew Adams, who overheard it had thrown her a smile of appreciative understanding; while his father was so delighted with the appellation that he'd addressed her as Miss Aladdin ever since."

The bank had flourished. Yesterday Juanita had contributed the price of three confession magazines, and was really enjoying some delectable novels. Two boys from a nearby ranch whom Nancy had supposed little better than morons, were devoting good travel books; and the wife of a health-seeker two miles back of the village, told Nancy with tears in her eyes that it seemed "like heaven" to have something to read again.

"And to think," said Cousin Columbine when the girl recounted this pathetic incident, "that I've been too thoughtless to look up those people and see their needs. But so many sick folks come to get that we take them too much for granted. I'm ashamed of myself. No wonder they call you Miss Aladdin!"

Steps sounded without, and Nancy glanced up. It was not yet two o'clock, but someone was coming. Then the door swung back to admit her brother and Matthew Adams. Luke was about again now; and Jack was job hunting.

"Any luck?" asked Nancy, as the boys drew up two gay red chairs.

Matthew nodded. "Your kid brother seems to profit by the misfortunes of others. Luke breaks a leg, and Jack gets his job. And now my Uncle Tom (Mother's brother, who has a ranch out on the plains), is down with flu along with two of his men, and has sent an S.O.S. for one of us fellows to help them out. Mark's drawn the unlucky number, and Jack's going back to the ranch again to take his place."

"Well!" said Nancy. "I'm sorry to have Mark go, of course, but it's marvelous for Jack; and sometimes there are complications at the flu!"

"A lot of sympathy you have for Uncle Tom!" grinned Matthew. Nancy laughed.

"I was merely wondering how long the job would last. Time goes so rapidly; and some day we've got to turn our faces to the East, you know."

Jack said nothing; and suddenly Matt's color rose.

"Why—you're not leaving us this spring, are you? I—I mean Miss Columbine said you'd stay a year!"

"I know; but such a thought never entered our heads, Matt. And now Dad's made another start I'm pretty sure they'll want us to come home. Not that I don't dread leaving Cousin Columbine. I'm awfully afraid she's going to miss us."

Jack, still silent, arose and went over to a window. Matthew sat looking into space. "Some—some of the rest of us will miss you too, Nance," he said surprisingly. "There's Mother and—and—"

Nancy laughed outright, and asked, eyes lighted with merriment: "Why spoil a pretty speech like that, Matt?"

"Spoil it?"

Jack came back, grinning, and slumped into the cushioned chair.

"She means, old man, that she's was no time to mention Mother! Honest, Nance, have we got to go home this spring?"

"You don't want to?" questioned his sister.

"Do you?" he countered.

The girl was silent, looking down at the toe of Matthew's boot. "I don't know, exactly," she said at last. "I'm crazy to see every one at home, of course; though I'd rather stay here through the summer. But I wonder if Cousin Columbine won't miss us even more if we leave her in the fall."

Spring's a cheerful time of year, you know; and she's getting old."

It was Matthew's turn to stand at the window, from which safe retreat he said over his shoulder: "You're going to leave a big hole in Pine Ridge, folks."

"Well," observed Jack, "we haven't gone yet, feller; and don't they tell us that it's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all?"

He laughed, but Matt, still gazing at Pike's Peak, responded soberly: "Whoever wrote that bunk was feeble-minded," and added, moving toward the door, eyes turned discreetly away from Miss Aladdin: "Come on, Jack, we must get going. Mark'll drop in to-morrow to say good-bye, Nancy, Luke's driving him to the Springs where somebody from Prairie Park will pick him up. He says he feels as if he were sentenced to Siberia, though it's the first time he hasn't jumped at the chance of going to Uncle Tom's! I—I wonder why."

Nancy smiled at this subtle compliment, and went to the door to watch the boys depart. There was a glimpse of the plains from her little porch, and as they lingered a moment the girl asked, her eyes on that undulating vista: "Does your uncle live right on the prairie, Matt?"

The young man nodded. "Sixty miles out, in a big old rambling ranch house surrounded by cottonwoods—a bully place. Those plains are wonderful, Nancy, and sometimes treacherous, too. We'll take you out after the weather's settled. No knowing what thrilling adventures we may have!"

Light words. . . Matt little thought that only a few weeks later they would come back to him during long, tragic hours which none of them was ever to forget.

Man Who Sold Mauretanian's Furnishings Had Voice Recorded

A record of the auctioneer's voice was made during the sale of the Mauretanian's furnishings, and will be stored away for the benefit of posterity in the Gallery of Famous Voices and Famous Occasions in Broadcasting House in London. The auctioneer's voice will keep company with those of Britain's greatest men and women, from the King and Queen down.

Place Of Historic Interest

Fort Churchill Eloquent With Stories of Courage and Disaster

The other day Fort Churchill, Canada's northern port on the Hudson Bay and the prairie's back door to the salt seas, was celebrating the opening of its shipping season. As a public issue the development of Churchill has been almost talked out. It was ridiculed and bitterly attacked when the rails were being laid and the grain terminals were under construction. But as a place of historic interest it has great significance and fascination.

For more than three hundred years ships have sailed into the Hudson Bay from the ports of Great Britain and Europe. Into it came the early explorers in their search for the northwest passage to the Orient and Cathay. By this route the first live stock and the first piano ever brought to the opening west were freighted by sturdy sailing vessels.

And at Churchill English and French held forts now crumbled into ruins. Here the Danish explorer, Munck, in the early part of the seventeenth century, survived a bitter winter in which most of his companions perished. Many decades later, in 1812, the gallant Selkirk settlers struggled with nature in the environs of the port; held their chins high through a steady test of cold before they could start on the trek to their new homes in the south. Churchill is eloquent with stories of courage, treachery and disaster. The sub-Arctic holds its lure to the adventurous to this day. The annals of this new Canadian port may still remind us of the determination of the pioneer explorers and settlers to break the hostile barriers of nature in a new land.—Hamilton Spectator.

The Anthony Eden Touch

London Bussman Made German Passenger Feel At Home

Whether London Transport is aware of it or not, at least one of its staff possesses the Anthony Eden touch.

On a west-bound 19 bus a young German seated in front of me tendered his money with the word "Piccadilly." The conductor asked which end of Piccadilly he meant, but the passenger held its lure to the one word "Piccadilly." Thereupon the conductor broke into fluent German, and the matter was adjusted. The delighted passenger moved to a seat beside the door, and a long conversation, glowing with international affinity, followed.

They parted with effusive Auf Wiedersehens.—London Daily Sketch.

Egyptian Shorthand

Papers Recently Discovered Show System Many Centuries Old

Three pieces of ancient Egyptian "paper" were discovered not long ago. On them were marks which proved very interesting, for they were clearly a system of shorthand many centuries old. Actually these treasures dated from the third century A.D. and there could be no doubt about them, for there was a perfectly good longhand "translation" given with the shorthand signs. It was this last fact which made the documents most interesting, for it gave the key to other manuscripts which until then had been mysteries that nobody was able to explain.

Little Helps For This Week

The Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow and from thy fear, and from the hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve.—Isaiah 14:3.

Today beneath thy chastening eye, I crave alone for peace and rest; Submissive in Thy hand to lie, And feel that it is best.

O Lord, who art as a shadow of a great rock in a weary land, who benedict Thy weak creatures weary of labor, weary of pleasure, weary of hope deferred, weary of self; in Thine abundant compassion and unutterable tenderness, bring us unto Thy rest.

Thou hast made us for Thyself, and our heart is restless until it rests in Thee. Grant to us above all things that can be desired, to rest in Thee, to have our hearts at peace. Thou art the true peace of the heart. Thou only art in Thee. In this very peace that is in Thee, the one Chiefest Eternal Good, we will sleep and rest.

Demand For Maps

Search For New Mineral Deposits Calls For Detailed Information

A marked increase in the demand for maps, among prospectors, sportsmen, foresters, engineers, and other classes, is reported by the Topographical and Air Survey Bureau of the Department of the Interior. During the last fiscal year 90,000 copies were distributed by the bureau, in comparison with approximately 70,000 during the preceding year.

The intensive search for new mineral deposits during the year was an important factor in the increase, while the desire of sportsmen to secure detailed maps of an area, when planning fishing, hunting or canoe trips, had a marked tendency to further increase the demand. The fact that a great many of the maps of the bureau are made from photographs taken from the air, thus ensuring a completeness of detail that does not prevail in the case of the older maps, also contributed to the increase.

A total of seventy-two maps of different districts throughout Canada are in course of preparation by the bureau and many of the areas being covered give promise of early mineral or other development.

A catalogue of the 1000 or more maps at present available has been published and copies may be obtained, without charge, upon application to the Surveyor General, Department of the Interior, Ottawa.

Turkish Law For Men

Compels Them To Wear Hats With Brims

If being allowed to wear what you like is a symbol of freedom in general, Turkish women are distinctly freer than Turkish men. The men today are compelled by law to wear hats with brims. The brim is to prevent him from touching the ground with his forehead, as religious custom prescribes, when he is saying prayers. The women may wear what they choose.

Main Street

Mr. J. W. Wyatt of Edmonton, was in Irma on business this week.

The Irma public school board held a regular meeting in the village office on Sept. 9th.

Dr. H. L. Coursier opened a dental office in Mr. Foxwell's building on September 10th.

On Sunday, September 15th, the Anglican service in Irma will be held at 11 o'clock a.m., and at St. Georges Metropolitan at 3 p.m.

Mr. J. W. Milburn and daughter, Ethel, and Mrs. C. W. Milburn and daughter, motored from Toronto, arriving here August 31st.

The Irma branch of the Canadian Legion and the Ladies' Auxiliary held a general meeting on Saturday evening, September 7th.

Mr. Carl Anquist is erecting an office on Main street adjoining the municipal office. Mr. Anquist is the B. A. Oil company's agent here and he has also taken over the John Deere agency.

We must not forget the quilting bee in the church on Tuesday afternoon, where a number of ladies gathered to work on one of the Ladies' Aid quilts in preparation for the coming bazaar. Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Frickleton, the conveners, served a dainty lunch at five o'clock.

Mr. Chas. Wilbraham has received verifications on radio reception from stations GSB "British Broadcasting Corp", London, Eng., and VK2ME "The Voice of Australia" Amalgamated Wireless Australia Ltd., Sydney, Australia. These programs were received on a short wave Sparton with a World Cruiser aerial.

Mrs. W. N. Frickleton entertained all the members of the two immediate families to dinner on Sunday. A surprise in honor of Mr. Frickleton's birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. M. K. McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Blakely and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Frickleton from Wainwright, Mr. and Mrs. H. Metz and family, and Mrs. Frickleton Sr. of Lougheed.

About nine little girls gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Slimmerman on Wednesday afternoon to a birthday surprise supper in honor of their eldest daughter, Vera, who was celebrating her tenth birthday.

The usual birthday cake, candles and other decorations, set off with flowers made a tempting table where all the little guests had an enjoyable time.

The Irma rural high school finally got started on Tuesday, September 10th, with Mr. I. S. Reeds as teacher. Mr. Reeds, high school inspector, had a meeting of the high school board called for Monday evening, 9th September. After reviewing the situation a vote was taken and this time Mr. Nash voted in favor of Mr. Reeds thereby breaking the deadlock. Indications are that the accommodation in the high school will be taxed to the utmost this year.

SPORT PEEPS

In boxing circles the great event of the month will be the 15-round scrap between Joe Louis, the negro, and Max Baer, on the 24th. To forecast the result is like talking about the respective merits of dynamite and T. N. T. If Louis wins, he will surely meet champion Braddock, unless the fastidious try to draw the color line. Local sports would like the radio manufacturers to hurry along with that television feature. They want to have a look in as well as hear.

The R.C.M.P. evidently do something beside "Always get their man." They play golf. From far and near, members of the famed force gathered at Calgary in a tournament. The four-man team from Edmonton proved superior to all others, and have the cup now in the locker to show the world how the clear eye and the steady hand produces satisfactory results.

As the baseball season nears the end of the schedule the race for top position in the Big League becomes more exciting. Detroit looks safe in the American, but there is doubt about St. Louis holding their present lead. The Dean brothers are doing their best to hold the Cardinals in the spotlight. But it takes hits and runs to produce the score that helps out good pitching. The other day Pittsburgh stayed even with the Cards for 16 innings. Then a lucky or "timely" hit by Gelbert brought the win over to the Dean clan.

Our local boy, Eddie Wenstob, performs at the big stadium at Wembley on Oct. 3th, when he meets Phillips in the feature bout. If he wins he may be awarded the Canadian title too in view of the holder, Belanger, turning down the challenge and slipping off to Australia. The Kaplansky stable of fighters who also take part in the program on the 8th include "Spider" Armstrong, amateur flyweight champion, and Tommy Brand, a lightweight. High hopes are held for Wenstob in this important contest. It is a far cry from the local Elks hall to the great Wembley Stadium, and a few sports here would have predicted such a meteoric rise for our Viking slugger a couple of years ago. Here's rooting for Eddie Wenstob. We may yet see him a world champion.

Doctor—"All babies do that."
Lipsing Lou—"Yeth, but heth's teething the bulldog neck door."

"You want to say it with flowers, eh? About two dozen?"
"No, about a half dozen. I don't want to say too much."

"Don't you think it's about time the baby learned to say 'Papa'?"
"Oh, no. I hadn't intended telling him who you are until he becomes a little stronger."

On the Alliance Line
"Is this train over on time?" growled the grouchy passenger.
"Oh," replied the conductor, "we never worry about it being on time. We're satisfied if it's on the track."

Some time ago a wedding write-up was sent to the newspaper that gave an elaborate account of the affair but failed to mention the names of the bride and groom. Another time the linotype operator made a slight correction of a line which said: "The bridesmaid wore only a Johanna Hill rose pinned in her hair and a pearl arm band, a gift of the bride," and saw that she was more comfortably attired to meet the present cool spell of weather.
